Weather
Fine cool weather today. The maximum temperature yesterday was 75.6 and the minimum 57.0, the figures for the corresponding day last year being 87.8 and 60.8.

GLASGOW CONGRESS FRAMES DEMANDS UPON GOVERNMENT

Repeal Of Conscription And Nationalisation Two Things Sought

M. P. IS SPEAKER

Vigorous Protest Against Direct Action Made To British Workers

PRESS IS HEARD

Action Taken Is Held As Challenge To Existence Of The State

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 12.—At the Trade Union Congress at Glasgow today the railwaymen's leader, Mr. Thomas, moved a resolution demanding that the Government should repeal the conscription acts, and immediate withdrawal from Russia, failing which a special trade union congress should be called to decide what action should be taken. The motion was carried almost unanimously.

Mr. J. R. Clynes, M.P., in a striking speech against direct action declared that it would result in breaking workmen's heads and women's hearts. He asked were they going to concede to every other class the right to resist a labor government's laws by strikes. He declared that the belief that the working-class was united was a delusion. Terrorism, he said, was not government, Labor was only just beginning to learn how to govern. He begged them not to challenge the existence of the State and claim a right to class dictatorship. "Others," he concluded, "will not be driven any more than you."

Interest Centered On Congress

London, September 12.—Exceptional interest centered in the Trade Union congress at Glasgow today in view of the direct action controversy. In the election of the new parliamentary committee it was regarded as significant that the Miners' Federation failed to secure representation on the committee, although it had two representatives last year.

One of their defeated candidates was an ex-committee man and two other ex-committee men, including Mr. Havelock Wilson, M.P., were rejected. It is understood that the direct actionists in the new committee are only five, while eleven oppose that policy.

The newspapers all comment on yesterday's vote at the Trade Union congress in favor of nationalisation of the mines.

The Daily Graphic: "It is a challenge to the nation."

The Daily Telegraph: "It is equivalent to a declaration of war on constitutional government. The resolution is a revolutionary act."

The Morning Post: "If the resolution means direct action, it would be opposed by the whole of public opinion."

The Daily Chronicle: "It is impossible to pretend that the votes cast yesterday represent reasoned convictions."

Sees Critical Situation

The Daily News: "Such an overwhelming vote creates a critical situation. The Government, confronted with such a demand, will if it has a glimmering of political sagacity immediately appeal to the country. An election is bound to result in the defeat of direct action."

The Daily Mail: "If Labor wishes to form a Government eventually it must abandon threats and adopt the legitimate political methods of persuasion. The country will never submit to direct action."

The Times: "The resolution which is a step in a carefully planned campaign commits nobody to any particular course of action except the interview with the Premier. We would remind the Congress that this is a democratic country and it is not enough to compel the Government but Parliament and the nation must be compelled. The nation indeed must be consulted if no solution is reached by agreement."

The Manchester Guardian: "However largely the interests of the workers are affected, they cannot oppose the will of parliament and as long as labor remains purely

Italian Poet Who Leads Expedition Into Fiume

Gabriel D'Annunzio

Fiume Is Raided By Italian Troops Led By d'Annunzio

Government Reported Taking Steps To Fix Responsibility For Foray

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, September 13.—Italian raiders including the poet D'Annunzio with machine guns and armored cars entered Fiume at noon yesterday.

Later.—It appears that the would-be raiders who were comprised of detachments of grenadiers and bands of storm troops started from Ronchi.

A semi-official statement issued here says that no disorders followed their arrival at Fiume, and that the Government is taking the most energetic steps to check the movement and to discover who is responsible for the act, as it was both rash and harmful.

Report Made In Chamber

Rome, September 14.—In the Chamber, in the course of a statement on the Fiume raid, Signor Nitti the Premier announced that the Commander of the sixth army corps had issued orders that d'Annunzio's troops should be intercepted and disarmed but the troops refused to obey the commander's order.

The 'Epoca' states that General Badoglio, deputy Chief of Staff, has gone to Fiume with full powers.

FRANCE TO GET MANDATE FOR SYRIA, IS REPORTED

General Allenby Denies Any Trouble Has Developed Over Question

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, September 10.—General Sir Edmund Allenby has gone to Leauville to meet Mr. Lloyd George.

The Temps says that the Emir Said, the ex-Turkish spy who was recently arrested by the British at Beirut with the consent of the French administrator, will be taken to Port Said and thence to Algeria.

The Temps expresses the hope that the peace conference will not break up without settling the Eastern question, including that of Syria.

Paris, September 9.—General Sir Ermund Allenby, who has arrived here denied the existence of differences between the British and French Governments on the subject of Syria.

It is stated that France is to have the mandate for Syria and that complete uniformity of views exists between Great Britain and France on this matter.

General Allenby will stay two days in Paris.

Deny Sir John Jordan Plans To Leave Peking

Proclamation Suppressing Sinn Fein In All Ireland Followed By Armed Raids

Clubs And Dwellings In Cork And Other Centers Are Visited And Searched By Police And Military Seeking Arms

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 13.—A proclamation was issued in Dublin yesterday suppressing Sinn Fein throughout Ireland.

Raids by the police and military in search of arms continued throughout Ireland yesterday. There were no disorders.

Clubs Are Raided

London, September 12.—Armed police and military yesterday raided the Sinn Fein clubs at Cork.

A proclamation is issued today in the Dublin Gazette suppressing the Sinn Fein parliament as "a dangerous association which was employed for all the purposes of the Sinn Fein organisations proclaimed on June 3."

Take Dublin Headquarters

London, September 11.—The military and police today raided the Sinn Fein headquarters in Dublin and detained two Sinn Fein members of Parliament, Messrs. Ernest Blythe and Patrick O'Keepe. All the Sinn Fein M.P.s' houses are being similarly visited. Armed police this morning raided the offices of a newspaper and three houses at Skibbereen.

Later.—Further reports show that the Irish authorities are taking the most active steps against the Sinn Fein movement throughout Ireland. Searches by armed police and troops for arms are reported from a number of places.

Exciting scenes occurred at Londonderry, where extensive visitations of Sinn Feiners' houses are proceeding. A large party of soldiers with fixed bayonets occupied the Sinn Fein hall. The crowd stoned the police, who had seized a quantity of arms and were carrying them to the barracks. The crowd were driven off by a baton charge. The occupier of one house sprang out of bed and presented two loaded revolvers at the police but was overpowered. At one point the commander of the troops ordered his men to aim their rifles at the crowd who proceeded to disperse.

Report Is Denied

London, September 10.—The story of Sinn Feiners raiding a monitor in Monkstown Bay, County Cork, is officially denied. The origin of the report, which was published in the Daily Express and Daily News, is at present obscure.

London, September 11.—Lord French, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, speaking at Belfast, referring to the recent murders of policemen and soldiers in Ireland, denounced them as unspeakable villainy and dastardly murders. He declared that the Irish Government's only policy at present was to secure to all law-abiding subjects freedom and protection. In fulfilment of that policy they would not shrink from adopting the most drastic measures, if they were necessary.

Acts Are Denounced

London, September 11.—Lord French, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland issued a proclamation yesterday suppressing all Sinn Fein organisations, including the Gaelic League, the Irish Volunteers and the Cumann-am-bann, in the city and county of Cork.

London, September 13.—A political detective was shot dead outside the detective office in the center of Dublin yesterday evening.

Price Of Rice Leaps, Due To Profiteering

Situation Acute Among Poor; Guilds Ask Chamber Of Commerce To Act

The price of rice took a sudden leap Sunday when first class quality was quoted at $9.30 per picul and it remained firm throughout yesterday. The poorer classes are panic-stricken and the labor guilds yesterday requested the Chamber of Commerce to devise means to check the increase, as it is feared that unless a drop is effected shortly, the ignorant class will be forced to desert their lawful occupations and resort to looting and robbery.

The cause of the big jump as usual is attributed to profiteering on the part of certain rice merchants who smuggle the foodstuff to Japan. After the strenuous opposition against exporting rice made by the Kiangsu Civil Governor, the Kiangsu Provincial Assembly and the local gentry, smuggling was temporarily suspended during the Summer.

Peking, however, recently brought pressure on the Kiangsu provincial authorities, who were obliged to release 200,000 piculs from this province for army use in the North. This opened the way for the profiteers. nder the pretext that the rice is being consumed by the Northern Army, certain rice merchants contracted with and delivered to local Japanese firms large quantities and realised handsome profits in the transactions.

The customs authorities are now investigating the manner of smuggling. Already small quantities have been seized in transit.

Cardinal Mercier Arrives In New York

'You May Be Certain,' He Says, 'There Will Be Another War Against France'

(Reuter's Service)

New York, September 11.—Cardinal Mercier arrived here yesterday.

New York, September 12.—Asked his opinion as to the possibility of another war Cardinal Mercier replied "You may be certain that there will be another war against France. Germany retains the same mind and is preparing revenge."

He added that such a war would be directed against Belgium also, for Belgium would be in the way.

Future Outlook Black For German Shipping

Nord-Deutsche Line Director Discusses Direct And Indirect Effects Of Treaty

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, September 11.—Herr Heineken, Director-General of the Nord-Deutsche Lloyd Steamship Company, discussing the future of German shipping in the Company's year book, says that, besides the direct effects of the peace treaty, indirect consequences will be ultimately fatal to German shipping. These, he says, include partial foreign control of the navigation of the Rhine, wholly foreign control of the Vistula, diminution of German territory, the transference of industries in Alsace-Lorraine and the consequent diversion of traffic to French and Belgian ports, renunciation of Germany's colonies, the realisation of the Entente's damages and the decision that German property abroad shall be reckoned at pre-war rates of exchange.

Herr Heineken concludes that it would be foolish to deny that the ton for ton policy ruthlessly carried out in the Treaty has struck German shipping to the marrow.

The United States ship New Mexico, photographed as she steamed under the Brooklyn Bridge recently while on the way to join the other units of the recently organised American Pacific Fleet. The new fleet, of which the New Mexico is to be the flagship, was organised from vessels heretofore forming a part of the Atlantic fleet. The vessels left Hampton Roads for the west coast via the Panama Canal between the 15th and 20th of July. Admiral Hugh Rodman, recently returned from European waters, is commander of the new Pacific armada.

STRIKE OF BOSTON POLICE IS FOLLOWED BY RIOTING

Streets Patrolled By Soldiers; Massachusetts Governor Will Not Arbitrate

(Reuter's Service)

Boston, Mass, September 12.—Seven killed is the result of two days' police strike here. The city is now quiet, being patrolled by soldiers wearing trench helmets.

Governor Coolidge declares that the police are deserters and not strikers, and that arbitration with them is impossible and re-instatement improbable, if they yield.

Gompers Sends Appeal

New York, September 12.—Mr. Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, has appealed to the policemen of Boston to resume duty asking them to await the conference of representatives of Capital and Labor convoked by President Wilson for October 6.

Rioting Is Renewed

Boston, September 11.—Following the police strike, rioting was renewed yesterday evening. Two men and a boy were killed and a number of persons injured, including women and girls, in collisions between the mobs and troops, who used machine guns. Finally cavalry cleared the streets. Practically all the police have struck. A volunteer police force has been organised including many Harvard university athletes.

Later.—The Governor of Massachusetts has asked the Secretary of the Navy to prepare to furnish naval forces for the protection of Boston. Rioting continues. The death roll numbers five.

Strike Of Police

Boston, Mass., September 9.—The police have struck. They demand the removal of the Police Commissioner who discharged 19 policemen for joining the union.

Boston, September 10.—In the absence of police, hooligans have looted the shops.

Later.—Troops have been ordered to prepare to cope with the lawlessness, organised looting is occurring and the disorders are increasing. The damage to private property exceeds $1,500,000. Clubs and knives are being used. The loyal police have arrested 200 individuals.

REWARD IN WEISS CASE IS INCREASED TO $3,000

Commissioner Of Police Doubles Original Offer In Attempt To Solve Mystery

Three thousand dollars is now offered for information leading to discovery of the movements of the late Mr. F. E. Weiss subsequent to 9:30 o'clock on the night of August 20, when he disappeared. The Commissioner of Police, in a circular issued yesterday, announced that the original reward of $1,000 has been doubled. The Canadian Pacific Ocean Services has offered $1,000.

While detectives are still working on the case, nothing has been learned that will conclusively establish either that Mr. Weiss was murdered or that he took his own life.

That the body was seen by Chinese some 12 hours before its discovery was reported to the Yangtszepoo police, has been established, and detectives have been interviewing residents of the village near the place off Pingliang Road where the body was found in an attempt to learn the whereabouts of missing Weiss property.

SHANTUNG'S RETURN TO CHINA URGED BY U.S. SENATORS

Important Modifications Of Treaty Proposed By Committee

POINTS RESERVED

Forty-Five Amendments Also Accompany Report Of Foreign Members

GERMANY WARNED

Must Heed Ultimatum Or Occupied Area Will Be Extended

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, September 10.—The Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate has formally reported the German peace treaty to the Senate with 45 amendments and four reservations which are intended to guard "American rights and sovereignty." The report characterises the treaty as "an alliance which would breed wars instead of securing peace."

The Committee's reservations propose unconditional right of withdrawal from the League of Nations, declination to assume the obligations of article 10 of the covenant except by action of Congress, the United States to have exclusive right to decide what questions are within their domestic jurisdiction, and the interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine to be determined by the United States.

The Four Amendments

The principal amendments provide for equal voting power for the United States and Great Britain in the League assembly, the return of Shantung to China, and the withdrawal of American representatives from all commissions deciding matters with which the United States are not concerned.

The report expresses the opinion that the other nations will accept the American amendments, "for," it says, "without us their League is a wreck and all their gains from a victorious peace are imperiled."

The treaty will be debated in the Senate on the 15th instant.

The minority report of the Foreign Affairs Committee, which is signed by all the Democrats on the Committee except one, urges speedy ratification of the treaty without reservations or amendments.

Move Is Exposed

Paris, September 11.—The Paris edition of the New York Herald states "Recently a Great Power particularly interested sought to have inserted in the Austrian treaty a special clause making it impossible for any Power to sign it which had not signed the treaty with Germany. The Americans blocked this attempt and the matter was dropped."

Warning To Germany

Paris, September 9.—The French delegates to the peace conference have strongly urged that unless Germany agrees to suppress the clauses in the new German constitution providing for eventual union with Austria without further delay, the area of occupation on the Rhine should be extended on expiry of the Allies' ultimatum. They point out that no further communication to Germany on the subject is necessary since the Allied note sent last week was a real ultimatum, failure to comply with which entails immediate action.

Reply Is Discussed

Paris, September 10.—The Supreme Council today, sitting at St. Germain, discussed the question of the reply to be sent to the German note regarding article 61 of the German constitution. The Council adopted the British expert's view that the guarantees which Germany offers are inadequate and that the German Government must send a representative to Paris to sign a protocol expressly declaring that any articles in the German constitution which are incompatible with the treaty of Versailles are null and void and that the Reichstag must ratify the protocol.

The Supreme Council also passed a resolution requiring all the powers concerned to sign the International Air Convention with the least delay.

The Bulgarian treaty will probably be handed to the Bulgarian delegation at the Quai d'Orsay tomorrow. The Supreme Council has decided to grant 15 days instead of the month demanded by the Bulgarians for the formulation of objections to the treaty. The treaty will probably be signed five weeks hence.

The Austrian Treaty

Paris, September 12.—The French newspapers commenting on the Austrian treaty say that it is the death certificate of the Austrian-Hungarian monarchy. The old monarchical state system, they declare, is now plunged into the irrevocable past. "None of the great changes wrought by the war," as one paper puts it, "is comparable with this."

Signing Of Treaty

St. Germain, September 10.—At the signing of peace with Austria today, altogether a dozen documents were signed, including the main treaty, the protocol affirming the authenticity of the text of the treaty, and treaties dealing with the protection of minorities in Rumania, Jugo-Slavia and Czecho-Slovakia. Mr. Balfour, Lord Milner and Mr. Larnes signed for Great Britain. Lord Milner also signed for South Africa. Sir Edward Kemp, Canadian Minister of overseas military forces, for Canada; and Sir Thomas Mackenzie, High Commissioner for New Zealand, for New Zealand; M. Clemenceau, M. Stephen Pichon, M. Andre Tardieu, M. Klotz and M. Jules Cambon signed for France, and Mr. Polk, Mr. White, the United States Ambassador, and General Bliss for the United States.

The Rumanian and Jugoslav delegates did not sign because they had not received instructions from their governments. The Supreme Council has given them until Sunday to make known their intentions.

Reuter's special correspondent describing the scene of the signing of the Austrian Treaty telegraphs: M. Clemenceau opened the session with the fewest possible words. Addressing Dr. Renner, the Austrian Chancellor, he said that the peace negotiations with Austria had been completed, and that he had certified that the treaty accorded with the agreements reached. He then invited Dr. Renner to sign. Dr. Renner alone signed for Austria. His bearing was tranquil and assured, and even the gravity of the moment did not divest his plump features entirely of their accustomed smile. The ceremony of signing lasted an hour, after which M. Clemenceau closed the session. Dr. Renner and most of the Austrian delegation return home tonight.

Ratified In Dominions

Ottawa, September 11.—The motion introduced by Sir Robert Borden for approval of the peace treaty was carried in the Dominion House of Commons today without a division.

Capetown, September 11.—The House of Assembly of the Union of South Africa has adopted by 84 votes to 10 a motion ratifying the peace treaty.

Paris, September 11.—After the ceremony of signing the Peace Treaty Dr. Renner and thirteen members of the Austrian delegation left Paris last night by the Orient express for Vienna.

Mandate Declaring Peace Expected In Pekin

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, September 13.—It is understood that a mandate will be issued tomorrow declaring peace with Germany and Austria, which will remain non-treaty Powers until fresh treaties have been negotiated.

The mandate will however deal with German and Austrian property in China, and also with the release of German and Austrian subjects now interned in China.

A Presidential mandate issued Sunday in Peking terminated the state of war existing between Germany and Austria on one side and China on the other, according to the Chinese press telegrams. The promulgation took place as a result of a cablegram from Mr. Lu Cheng-hsiang and Dr. C. T. Wang, who stated that they had signed the Austrian Treaty of Peace. The government has ordered the ministries to draft a program for an official celebration which will probably take place on the Double Ten Festival.

Another mandate conferred the Grand Order of Merit on General Tuan Chi-jui, former Director of the War Participation Bureau, in recognition of his "service in China's participation in the war."

Peking, September 13.—The Government, having received a report from Mr. Lu Cheng-hsiang that the Austrian treaty has been signed, has resumed discussion of the proposed declaration of peace with Germany. A Cabinet meeting was held this morning at which it was resolved to await details in connection with the Austrian treaty before taking any definite step.

As these details are expected daily it is thought that the mandate declaring peace with Germany and Austria will be issued during the next few days.

Paris, September 13.—It is declared with reference to Sino-Japanese difficulties that the Chinese Government is firmly resolved not to sign the peace treaty with Germany until Japan restores Shantung.

Peking, September 15.—The Government has asked the Chinese delegation in Paris to forward the fullest details regarding the inauguration of the League of Nations and China's entry into the League.

Departure Is Delayed

Peking, September 14.—It is reported that Lu Cheng-hsiang's departure from France has been delayed as the Government desires him to participate in the forthcoming discussions on the Boxer indemnity and extraterritoriality.

Paris, September 11.—The treaty with Bulgaria will not be presented to the Bulgarians, pending the receipt of a note on the subject which the Rumanians intend to hand in. The treaty has been completed without a settlement of the Thracian question, which is left over to be discussed in connection with the Turkish treaty. Owing to the difficulties of communication between Paris and Bulgaria, the Bulgarians will be given three weeks to consider the terms.

Cabinets Are Out

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, September 11.—It is reported that the Rumanian and Servian cabinets have resigned. Hence the time limit granted to Rumania and Jugoslavia to sign the Austrian treaty will probably be prolonged.

The peace conference has decided to take a plebiscite in the Teschen coalfield district in order to settle the conflicting claims of the Poles and Czechs.

Paris, September 10.—The representatives of Esthonia, Lettonia and Lithuania have addressed a letter to the peace conference asking for information regarding the conference's decisions on the subject of the Baltic question. They declare that recognition of the independence of their respective countries is necessary if they are to continue the struggle against the Bolsheviki. They also desire admission to the League of Nations.

Paris, September 10.—Mr. Balfour returns to England tomorrow. His successor as first British plenipotentiary at the peace conference is not yet known.

Paris, September 11.—Mr. Balfour is retiring from the British delegation to the Peace Conference. Lord Milner will probably succeed him as senior British delegate.

Paris, September 13.—Mr. Lloyd George has arrived here.

Paris, September 13.—The Supreme Council has formally approved the International Air Convention.

Situation In Silesia Reported To Be Quiet

Berlin, September 11.—A semi-official statement issued here says that everything is quiet in Upper Silesia. Work is proceeding normally. The daily coal production of the last few days averaged 90,000 tons, which is in excess of the average before the strikes.

Berlin, September 11.—A German note which has been presented at Versailles expresses anxiety at the agitation in irresponsible Polish quarters during the past fortnight in connection with Upper Silesia. "This agitation," the note says, "is calculated to incite the Polish masses to acts of violence, and it is the duty of the Polish Government to oppose these machinations and prevent Polish bands from crossing the frontier and attacking the German troops, who require all their self-control not to pursue the bands back across the frontier."

The note concludes by declaring that the German and Prussian Governments are successfully endeavoring to safeguard peace and order in Upper Silesia and so enable the work and production to continue.

Paris, September 11.—The Supreme Economic Council will meet in Brussels between September 15 and 20.

'The Brat'

"The Brat" is a pretty little domestic comedy built upon a good deal finer foundation than that which is usually found in modern plays. It contains quite an interesting story which keeps one keen and guessing till the very last moment, and a feature of the comedy is the successful attempt at character drawing. "The Brat" is a living and lovable little creature to be found any day in the larger American cities, and she comes into contact with two brothers. The contrast between the men is finely brought out, and this with the capital studies of two girls and a bishop stamps the author, Miss Maude Fulton, as a remarkably clever writer. The lady just named has given us in "The Brat" her first play, and I hear that she is now working quietly in one of San Francisco's many handsome apartment houses on a bunch of new plays which she intends to release in the very near future.

Miss Beatrice Prentice was "The Brat." I have been called to book for saying that such and such a player "TOOK" a part whereas he "PLAYS" a part, or as "Dempsey" says "Goes on for it" but whether it is taking, or playing or going on for it, Miss Prentice evidently does all three. Whenever she was on the stage she was "The Brat" to the life. The part evidently got well under the skin for the period of the play, and that little lady scored another big success.

Mr. Homer Barton was seen in a study that gave him plenty of opportunities to show how versatile he is. He has always been very popular with Shanghai audiences, but it was more than popularity that brought that big round of applause at the end of Act One. It was a spontaneous expression of the playgoers' appreciation of some fine work. He played the part of Steve Forrester, the devil-may-care younger brother, who was partial to states that had not yet gone dry, and as a drunk he carried the part to the life. He continued to sustain the favorable impression that he so early created.

Mr. Morrison as Macmillan Forrester, the author and somewhat conceited brother of Steve, was not as much loved as usual. That as a matter of fact is a compliment to his acting. He was supposed to be unpleasant and he was at times, but every now and again he gave us glimpses of the better man and then his many admirers were so pleased. T. D. Frawley as the old retainer and Henry Crosby as the Bishop supplied excellent character parts.

Miss Gloria Fonda had the biggest part she has so far been heard in, and right well did she carry it through. She spoke well and her lines carried conviction. She had one or two difficult scenes to present and she handled them splendidly. Miss Vera Doria and Miss Virden gave capital support in lesser roles.

Tonight the same play will be repeated and it is well worth a visit. Tomorrow the company will appear in "Three Faces East."

LORD FISHER CONTINUES CRITICISM OF NAVY

Former First Lord Convinced Air Craft Will Play Big Part In Sea Fighting

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 11.—Admiral Lord Fisher continuing his articles in the Times on the subject of the Navy, insists that a reduction of naval tonnage should be carried out. He says that the public does not realise that the unobsolete half of the navy is equal in efficiency to all the navies of the world, but he would not on that account cease ship-building.

He says that he believes in the internal combustion engine or oil, and that he would build first of all not necessarily fighting vessels, but inexpensive oil-carrying tramps fitted with internal combustion engines. He is convinced that air craft will be able to sink surface ships so effectually that submersible vessels will be necessary both for war and commerce.

In his concluding article on the Navy in the Times, today Lord Fisher says that a period of change is at hand as sweeping in its character as was either the introduction of steam or the advent of armor, for the fact is unquestioned that aircraft even now are making such prodigious developments that the only escape for vessels on the surface of the ocean will be to go under the water.

"These types of submersible vessels of every size and character," he says, "will instantly require great study and research and much experiment. We had a submersible carrying a twelve inch gun before the war ended."

Lord Fisher concludes that a fight between British and Americans is inconceivable and asks "Cannot the American and British navies dominate the world at any time and simply tell all the others not to build more or we will fight you here and now?

Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, September 12.—President Wilson speaking here pictured the world aflame with war unless the peace treaty was accepted. Critics Of British Policy In North Russia Answerea

Secretary For War In Note Tells How Withdrawal Of Troops Is Being Carried Out

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 11.—Mr. Churchill, Secretary for War, in an official note replying to the criticisms on British policy in North Russia says:

"The policy accepted by the House of Commons on the 29th July, is being steadily and punctually pursued. The decisions on which it is based are irrevocable, and there is no reason to suppose that General Rawlinson, who is in supreme command of the British forces at Archangel and Murmansk, will not succeed in his task at an early date; nevertheless the peculiar difficulty of the withdrawal operations must be realised. The enemy forces, on the above mentioned fronts, may well equal the combined forces of the British and Russian Nationals. The attitude of the latter, who are much more numerous than the British, and also the attitude of the civil population, must inevitably be affected by the British withdrawal. Thus the task of extricating the British, while injuring as little as possible the subsequent chances of the Russian Nationals, is a most complex problem. The Government consider it their duty to offer means of refuge to all Russians who have compromised themselves with the Bolsheviki through assisting us. Considerable numbers of persons, including women and children, besides the British troops, must therefore be evacuated by sea."

Suggestion Is Denounced

Mr. Churchill scathingly describes the suggested process of simply marching the British troops into transports, and sailing away under cover of the guns of the warships, as likely to result in a series of episodes dishonorable to the British name. The military authorities, he says, always insisted that the British troops could not be withdrawn except by certain offensive operations of a limited scope, in order to disengage the front. It would be wrong and unpatriotic to increase the difficulties of withdrawal in its most critical phase, by inspiriting the enemy and disheartening the Russian nationals.

Referring to the allegations published in the press by Lieut. Col. Sherwood Kelly, V. C., regarding British operations in North Russia, Mr. Churchill explains that Col. Kelly was removed from his post on August 16, and sent back to England for a serious offense under the Army Act. General Rawlinson reported that he only refrained from court-martialling him owing to his gallant record. Lt. Col. Sherwood Kelly, Mr. Churchill adds, is now otherwise an offender against the King's regulations, and will be subjected to disciplinary action.

Statement Withheld

Mr. Churchill then proceeds to recapitulate the steps already taken and published in connection with the British withdrawal. He refers to the upsetting of the British plans to withdraw from North Russia, without risk, difficulty or anxiety as regards the fate of the North Russian Government and army, owing to the failure of Admiral Koltchak's plan to join up with the North Russians. He states that it is not proposed to issue any statement of policy or regarding the progress of operations until British lives are no longer endangered by publicity, or Russian nationals' interests prejudiced. Referring to the numerous rumors about anti-Bolshevist forces in the Baltic States and Petrograd front, which may be chiefly ascribed to Bolshevist wireless reports, he says that no British were ever employed there, nor had the British Government ever accepted responsibility for those military operations. "We only furnished munitions and advice," he says, "and the British navy with its superb efficiency prevented the Bolshevists from raiding the Baltic ports." He points out in this connection that the Baltic States are subjected to social dangers from the Bolsheviki and political dangers from Germany. These, he says, cannot be averted singlehandedly by Great Britain, but they have engaged the attention of the Peace Conference for some time. The problem can only be grappled with by the victorious Allies acting in concert.

Paper Makes Comment

London, September 12.—The Manchester Guardian suggests that the British evacuation of North Russia may be carried out by the Baltic not the Arctic Ocean, and that the preliminary step should be an advance on Petrograd. The Times hints that the limited offensive operations mentioned by Mr. Churchill may not be wholly unrelated to the policy of the Allies in the Baltic States, and points out that competent judges are of the opinion that the Finns could take Petrograd with a little encouragement. It says that doubtless the White Russians would be glad to have such allies upon reasonable conditions, and perhaps the Esthonians might prefer it to pursuing peace negotiations with the Reds, but if Petrograd is to be attacked, it must be attacked immediately, otherwise the Germans and Russian Reds will be able to entrench themselves.

Advance Is Checked

London, September 11.—It is authoritatively announced that the Polish and Lithuanian advance on Dvinsk has been held up by the Reds who forced back the Poles in the Polotska area to Zyadki.

General Denikin is clearing up the country between Odessa and Kieff. He at present occupies all the area east of the Kief Odessa railway by Dividpol and Voznesensk. His cavalry north and east of Kief is advancing towards Cherniceff from which they are now twelve miles distant. The Bolshevist counter-offensive towards Kharkoff failed but further east the right wing of the Don army and General Wrangel's troops on both banks of the Volga have been compelled to retreat before powerful Bolshevist attacks.

Admiral Koltchak's position in Siberia continues to improve.

The position on the North Russian front has not materially changed.

London, September 12.—Urkainian official reports received here show that sanguinary fighting between General Petlura's troops and the Bolsheviki preceded the capture of Kief, both sides losing heavily. Subsequently as General Denikin's cavalry approached the city the Ukrainian garrison went out to meet them. General Denikin's men attacked, compelling the Ukrainians to engage in fierce battle. The cause of General Denikin's attack is not known, but it is supposed that it originated in a misunderstanding.

Trotsky Is Speaker

London, September 10.—Speaking recently at Moscow, Trotsky described the Bolshevist position in the south as very grave. They need not however be discouraged, he said, for eight months ago they had no boots, overcoats, rifles, or cartridges. He proceeded "Now we have conquered the Urals with all the factories, while Siberia with its foodstuffs will guarantee us from starvation," in conclusion Trotsky promised to help "the strangled Hungarian workers and save the peoples of Asia."

London, September 10.—Reuter's Agency learns that the Mosiems in Siberia are enthusiastically forming volunteer regiments to fight under the Green flag against the Bolshevists, whom they regard as the avowed enemies of all faiths.

Admiral Koltchak reports that the upper reaches of the Obi river are now navigable and that arrangements have been completed for unloading ships.

Harbin, September 13.—The Russian telegraph agency states that a delegation headed by General Belorussoff has arrived at Irkutsk, and greeted the Czecho-Slovak delegation in the name of the Omsk Government. He declared that the Government and all Russian people feel the greatest sympathy for the Czecho-Slovak Republic, and believe that friendly union and common work between Russians and Czecho-Slovaks will guarantee the future friendly relations of the Slav nations. The chief of the Czech delegation declared that the Czechs would not leave Siberia until their assistance was no more necessary.

Harbin, September 13.—It is reported from Omsk that the position of General Yudenitch's army has grown firmer after the creation of the Northern Government, which has greatly contributed to the establishment of good relations with the Esthonians in order to carry out operations against the Bolshevists.

New Groups Formed

London, September 10.—The Times special correspondent on the Eastern front telegraphs that the Reds have constituted a new group of Armies at Samara, designated for the Turkestan front, and that orders have been sent to the Bolshevist authorities to prepare for the transit of troops from the Lower Volga to Central Asia.

London, September 13.—Lieut.-Colonel Sherwood Kelly V. C. in a letter to the Daily Express says that when he was in North Russia he wrote a private letter to a friend in England condemning the North Russian operations with the deliberate purpose of getting back to England. This was the serious offence mentioned by Mr. Churchill in his official note of the 11th instant.

Lieut.-Colonel Kelly says that his relations with the General Staff at Archangel were not good because he had more than once to protest against staff mismanagement. He concludes that he will welcome a court-martial.

Stockholm, September 14.—According to a report from Helsingfors the Russian Northwest army has captured Yamburg.

Helsingfors, September 12.—The representative of Esthonia here states that the Bolshevist peace offer has neither been accepted nor refused, adding "Esthonia will not conclude peace without consulting Finland and the Allies."

London, September 14.—The Bolshevist wireless announces "The Riga Government has accepted the offer of the Soviet Government to begin peace negotiations."

Helsingfors, September 13.—The Soviet Foreign Commissary has informed the Esthonian Government that the peace negotiations will be held at Moglio near the Pckoff-Reveal railway.

London, September 13.—The War Office issues the following communiques:

"After three days' battle at Tsaritsin, in which the Bolshevists made combined attacks in different directions upon the town, the defending troops under General Wrangel heavily repulsed the attacking forces, capturing nine thousand prisoners, eleven guns and over a hundred machine guns. Three Bolshevist regiments surrendered and two others were completely destroyed."

BRITISH AIRSHIP MAKES DEMONSTRATION FLIGHT

R33 Carries Passengers Over Battlefields Of Belgium And France

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 11.—The British airship R-33 returned to Pulham, Norfolk, at 6:20 this evening after carrying out a demonstration flight over Holland and the French and Belgian battlefields. The R-32 also took part in the demonstration. The two airships flew over Amsterdam together at 7 o'clock this morning. The R-33 had previously passed over the Hague and subsequently voyaged to Rotterdam, Antwerp and Brussels. She flew over Lille at 2:40 this afternoon and then across the battlefields. The trip lasted twenty hours.

Paris, September 11.—It is announced that owing to engine trouble the R 33, which has arrived in Brussels via Amsterdam, will go direct to London without touching Paris. The airship was expected to arrive at St. Cyr near Paris this afternoon to carry General Seely, the British Air Minister, to London.

London, September 10.—The Air Ministry announces that the airship R 33 will start this evening from Norfolk for a 36-hours' flight in order to demonstrate the capabilities of lighter than aircraft and as a practical illustration of the comfort provided for passengers.

Leading members of the air industry and representatives of the home and dominions government departments will take part in the flight. The airship, which will carry six officers and a crew of 27, will cruise over the North Sea, Holland and France landing at the principal towns. Sleeping berths have been rigged up in the internal keelway.

Later.—The R-33 departed from Pulham, Norfolk at 8.14 o'clock tonight.

Brussels, September 11.—The British airship R 33 which is making a 36-hours' demonstration flight over the North Sea, Holland, Belgium and France, arrived here from Amsterdam at 12.45 this afternoon.

EMPLOYERS IN OSAKA POSTPONE 8-HOUR DAY

Recommendation Of Committee That Favored Measure Is Rejected

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, September 13.—The Osaka Industrial Association elected Mr. Sanji Muto, a leading cotton manufacturer to represent Osaka at the national capitalist conference to be held in Tokio, to select Japan's representative of Capital at the forthcoming Washington conference. The Tokio conference susequently chose Mr. Sanji Muto as the Japanese delegate.

The Osaka Industrial Association has voted a postponement of the introduction of an eight hour day for five years, thereby upsetting the recommendations of the Standing Committee in favor of the measure. This reversal of the Committee's recommendation was carried on a majority of one. The cotton spinners and weavers formed the mainstay of the reactionaries.

The newspapers denounce the action of the Industrial Association as disgracing the name of Osaka and they particularly censure the cotton textile representatives.

Serial articles continue to be published in the press exposing the employment of young girls in cotton mills at low wages for long hours, in spite of the enormous profits made.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, September 13.—The Government has notified the Japanese Legation of its acceptance of the six Japanese demands in connection with the Changchun incident.

The first demand will be carried out in Peking while the remaining five will be referred to General Chang Tso-lin for negotiation with regard to detailed compliance.

GENERALS AT PEKING DISCUSS FOREIGN LOAN

Official Opinion Generally Said To Be Opposed To New Consortium

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, September 14.—According to the Chenpao the Canton Administration has telegraphed to the Government here, saying that it learns from Yokohama that a Japanese loan of one hundred million yen, secured by the iron and copper mines in Sinkiang, is being negotiated. The Canton Administration hopes that the Peking Government will take the measures necessary to prevent the conclusion of the loan.

Peking, September 11.—On his arrival at Peking, General Nei Sze-chung visited President Hsu and subsequently dined with Marshal Tuan. According to the Shuntien Shih Pao, General Nei is in favor of contracting a foreign loan. This probably prefers to the proposed Japanese loan, which, it is understood, will be submitted to the meeting of generals, to be held shortly, some of the generals summoned to Peking not yet having arrived.

It is reported today that Chinese official opinion, apart from the pro-Japanese element, is opposed to the new consortium, owing to the belief that a monopoly is intended which would imperil the sovereignty of China, and it is believed that the meeting of generals will give an expression of opinion on that subject.

King Of Italy Cedes Property To Soldiers

(Reuter's Service)

Rome September 12.—In the Chamber of Deputies today Signor Nitti, the Premier, by the King's command introduced a bill ceding the bulk of the Crown property to the fighting men and reducing the civil list by three million lire. The announcement was greeted with a great patriotic outburst by the deputies and onlookers.

The preamble to the bill, ceding the bulk of the Crown property to the fighting men and reducing the civil list by three million lire, shows that only the palaces at Rome and Turin are retained by the Crown, while the royal art treasures by the King's wish will be collected in one palace and handed over to the nation.

FIRST LORD DISCUSSES BRITISH NAVAL POLICY

Government Unwilling, He Says, Hurriedly To Cut Down Expenditures

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 11.—The light cruiser Despatch was to be launched at Glasgow yesterday but the launching was abandoned owing to the vessel jamming on the ways.

Mr. Walter Long, First Lord of the Admiralty, speaking at luncheon on this occasion said that the Admiralty was condemned in some quarters for undue delay in instituting a policy of economy but he was not willing hurriedly to cut down the navy. Until peace was signed it would have been a crime to have relaxed the efforts to ensure the readiness of the Navy.

There had been meetings daily at the Admiralty since peace, and every aspect of the naval problem had been discussed. They were trying to effect economy safely but the Admiralty and the Government were not prepared to play ducks and drakes. At the same time they realised that in view of the prospect of considerable peace it was a duty only to build the ships required and not to pursue the pre-war program. They must do everything to develop commercial undertakings essential to national prosperity.

Shanghai British .303 Rifle Championship

Mr. A. M. Collaco enjoys the honor for the second time this contest winning the last two, first and second stages, Lumbon and the final which constitute a record since this competition was inaugurated in 1913.

The third stage (900 and 1,000 yards) was shot off yesterday at 7 a.m. sharp. The weather conditions were fairly good. After firing at 900 yards, Lancaster topped the list with 68, followed by Collaco, Luthy, Mottu and Lambert with 65 each, Smith and Terrill with 63 each and Ito 61. In adding these scores with those of 1st and 2nd stages combined, Collaco kept the lead with 252, next came Ito and Lancaster with 240 each, Rose 239 and Luthy 238.

At the 1,000 yards Collaco and Terrill scored 65 each, followed by Lambert and Luthy with 64 each and Ito 63. Rose fell heavily at this range; he scored only 30. At this stage Collaco's aggregate was 130 (one point below his last year's score, 131) next came Lambert and Luthy 129 each and Terrill 128. Adding this score with those of two last stages combined Collaco won the honor from 2nd man, his grand total being 317 (beat his last year's record by 8 points). Ito won the Silver Medal with 303 and Luthy Bronze Medal with 302. The last two named shot in this important competition for the first time and deserve great credit for their fine performances. H. W. Lambert ought to be congratulated for his fine performance at the long ranges. He is a "B" class shot of the S.R.A.

Intolerance

At the Olympic Theater beginning Friday night will be screened D. W. Griffith's new spectacle, "Intolerance," said to be the greatest film ever made.

The contrast of splendor with gaunt realism and the great moving forces of ancient warriors make "Intolerance" an achievement in every respect different from anything that has ever before been shown in the theater. It is difficult to say where the chief interest lies, whether in the tremendous scenes in and around the ancient city of Babylon, in the events in the streets of Paris during the reign of Charles IX, in the Tissot-like recreation of old Judea or in the modern story. Running through the threads of the story is a musical score interpreted by a large and carefully selected symphony orchestra.

RAILROAD FREIGHT RATES THREATEN PACIFIC TRADE

American Exports To Dutch Indies Endangered, Says Visiting Consul-General

Mr. H. A. Van Coolpen Torchiana, consul-general for the Netherlands at San Francisco, yesterday expressed the opinion that unless America quickly looks to the question of Pacific Coast-Java freight rates a large part of the present vast business built up between America and the Dutch East Indies and also that with the Orient in general, will be lost. Mr. Torchiana is at present in Shanghai on his return from a trip through Sumatra, Java and other Dutch colonies at the request of the Governor-General of the Netherlands East Indies.

Before the war the American railroads extended deferential freight rates to shippers by which the sum total cost of shipping goods that originated at Pittsburgh, say to Batavia, was the same from San Francisco as from New York. Now, since the Government abolished the differential rates, New York has so much the better of it that the business is rapidly drifting away from the Pacific ports.

The growth of the business of America with the Dutch East Indies from 1914 was phenomenal. That year the part that went through the port of San Francisco amounted to G.$50,000. In 1917 it was G.$53,000,000.

"Unless an effort is made soon to regulate rates with reference to trans-Pacific trade," said Mr. Torchiana yesterday, "that business is likely to go, some of it to New York, but more of it to Europe. The Pacific Coast, I believe, is the logical place for it to grow. It is the place where they have oil fuel, which is both cheaper and better fuel where they have no canal tolls to pay, and where from a point of view of defense there will never be any danger of its being suddenly terminated by such a thing as the abrupt closing of a canal."

The Netherlands Consul-General at San Francisco has been stationed at that port for 25 years. He has caught much of the west coast spirit of enthusiasm.

Everywhere in the East, he says the evidences of improvement and progress are to be seen. He believes that the Pacific as a center of commerce is now about to come into its own.

U.S. Consul-General Found Korea Tranquil

Consul-General Thomas Sammons, with a color evidencing the out-of-doors, was at his desk again yesterday in the American Consulate after five weeks in Korea and Manchuria. Dairen he found greatly changed from the Dalny of 15 years ago. It looks to him now, he said, like a thriving Japanese shipping and industrial center. Korea early in August was greatly in need of rain.

Politically, conditions seemed quiet enough and he encountered no outward evidences of trouble.

Coal Road Permit If Governor Pledges No Mines And Foreigners Get No Stock

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, September 12.—Lu Tai-an, Civil Governor of Anhui and concurrently director-general of the Tsaitang Coal Mines, recently submitted a petition to the Central Government, requesting permission to construct the Men-Tsai line of railway with a view to facilitating the transportation of coal from these mines. The Ministry of Communications has now granted this request subject to the following four conditions:

(1) The Ministry of Communications reserves for itself the right to purchase the Men-Tsai line at any time, no matter whether the line is completed or not.

(2) Neither the coal mine nor the railway, nor any other property belonging to the Tsaitang Coal Mines, shall be used as security for a foreign loan, and no foreigner shall be permitted to hold stock in either the mine or the railway. If it appears that foreigners do hold stock in these enterprises, such stock shall be confiscated by the Ministry of Communications.

(3) The Ministry of Communications may at any time send representatives to investigate the conduct of the railway, particularly with respect to its accounting system.

(4) The Men-Tsai Line, including such bridges and tunnels as may be constructed in connection with it, as well as all the traffic arrangements of the line, must not in any way conflict with the line of the Kin-Sui Railway.

CROWDS AT WINNIPEG SEE PRINCE OF WALES

Striking Welcome Is Given To Royal Visitor By Throngs Of Canadians

(Reuter's Service)

Winnipeg, September 10.—The Prince of Wales arrived here today. The city gave H. R. H. a striking welcome. The wide streets were inadequate to contain the enormous crowds. The greatest difficulty was encountered to secure a passage for the royal procession to the City Hall. Similar enthusiastic scenes occurred at the new parliament buildings where the central domed court was a mass of flowers. There was another enormous gathering in the enclosure where the Prince inspected military units including returned soldiers and South African war veterans. He afterwards shook hands with a long line of widows and mothers of fallen soldiers. The barrier round the enclosure burst before the pressure of the crowds and the Prince found himself in the middle of what resembled a vast rugby scrimmage in which the people endeavored to reach him and pat him on the back. The Prince fulfilled a long list of engagements during the day. The streets were beautifully decorated, with brilliant illuminations at night.

In the course of a speech the Prince of Wales laid stress on the point that the development of Western Canada, which was the granary of the Empire, must not be delayed.

The state of the Prince's hands after many thousands of handshakes since he has been in Canada are making it physically impossible for him to continue this democratic practice generally.

Saskatoon, Canada, September 11.—The Prince of Wales arrived here today and was given a very enthusiastic reception. He visited the university and witnessed an exhibition of cowboy riding and steer roping.

Edmonton, Alberta, September 12.—The Prince of Wales in the course of a speech here today referring to the new power devolving on the dominions as the result of recognition of their nationhood said.

"You in Canada have the history of British institutions to make or mar. I know from your past achievement and your magnificent war record that British institutions, British unity, and the British flag are safe in your keeping."

Call For September Election Is Suppressed By Rumanian Troops

Berlin, September 9.—According to advices from Budapest 4,500 communists who have been arrested will be tried there shortly. The Entente, it is added, has presented a note prohibiting the passing of death sentences on the communists as nobody is at present governing in Hungary who can sign acts of pardon.

Budapest, September 9.—The Rumanians have prohibited the issue of the Hungarian proclamation fixing the elections for September 28. The Hungarian Premier, M. Friedrich, invoking the concession received from the Entente mission and Rumania on the subject of the elections urges the desirability of gauging public feeling with regard to his policy.

Record Enrollment At American School

Nearly 140 Pupils Attend Opening Classes And More Are Expected

With an attendance of between 130 and 140 the first day, the Shanghai American School began work yesterday in all classes except those of mathematics. The new pupils number between 40 and 60 which is more than any year in the history of the school. More students are expected to enroll. Four are coming from Amoy. Seven more are expected from Swatow and Foochow will send from ten to twelve. This last group will be accompanied by one of the senior missionaries of that city.

Classes on the first day were in some cases shortened to straighten out conflicts in the schedules of some of the high school students. Time was also taken to explain the new system, inaugurated this year, of lengthening the class periods to 50 minutes, where formerly they were 40, in order to devote a part of the time to "supervised study."

Mr. C. L. Boynton, acting superintendent, explained that it has been found by educators abroad that children often do not know how to study and this method of from ten to 25 minutes of close application under direction had produced what was rated as a 40 percent higher efficiency in some American schools. The extra hour added to the day by this means will be eliminated from the night study required.

Arrangements have been made whereby Mrs. Dadisman, preceptress, will serve on the teaching staff at full time until some of the teachers expected arrive. Mrs. Dadisman was an instructor in the Topeka, Kansas, high school until recently. Miss Lowrie, mathematics teacher, is expected on September 22.

(Reuter's Service)

Marseilles, September 10.—The departmental federation of trades unions has declared a general strike to take place tomorrow, as the demands of the dockers have not been granted.

General Strike Starts

Marseilles, September 12.—The general strike in support of the dockers' strike began yesterday by a cessation of work in the gas, electricity, transport, metal, and building industries. No ships left Marseilles yesterday. Communication with Algeria and Tunis is suspended.

The tramways are still running in spite of the general strike, but work at the docks is at a standstill, the crews having deserted their ships in sympathy with the dockers.

Ships Held Up

HISTORY OF TANKS TOLD BY SPEAKER IN LONDON

Naval Construction Director Describes Experiments That Produced Land Ships

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 11.—Speaking at the British Association meeting at Bournemouth, Sir Eustace Tennyson d'Eyncourt, Director of Naval Construction, who was head of the Admiralty committee which produced the first tank, told the history of the tanks.

He said that the military authorities wanted a land-ship capable of crossing gaps five feet wide, and carrying a crew of ten with several guns, fuel and water for twenty miles.

After experimenting unsuccessfully with two linked-up tractors and then with a machine with fifteen wheels, they ultimately produced the tank as used on the Somme, which was subsequently improved upon.

Sir Eustace mentioned that the very latest tanks possessed smoke-screen creators, bulletproof spherical gun-mountings, unditching gear, signalling apparatus, and a special arrangement for traversing soft ground.

HAD A HARD TIME GETTING HER TEETH

Until Baby's Own Tablets Were Tried—Then Began Improving At Once.

The reason why Mrs. David Lee's physician prescribed Baby's Own Tablets for her child was because he knew them to be perfectly harmless; they are sold under a guarantee, backed by a Government Analyst's certificate, that they contain absolutely no opiate or narcotic and can be given with perfect safety even to the youngest infant.

Says Mrs. Lee, who resides at Lindsay, Ontario, Canada:—"My little girl had a hard time getting her teeth. She was quite feverish, her tongue was coated, her breath offensive and she vomited curdled milk. On the advice of our doctor I give her Baby's Own Tablets and she began improving at once. She had not slept well at nights for three months, and I was almost worn out caring for her. Nothing did her any good until I gave her the Tablets. Now her food d'gests properly, her breath is sweet, her tongue clean and she is quiet and good. I can strongly recommend the Tablets to other mothers as they did my baby good when nothing else did."

Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, are recommended in cases of simple fever, colic, constipation, indigestion, diarrhoea. They make teething easy, promote healthy appetite, restful sleep and regular development, are a remedy for worms. Sold by chemists, or sent post free at 60 cents the vial by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

TWO NORTHERN LEADERS IN CLASH AT PEKING

General Chang Tso-lin Seeks Appointment As Commander Of Northeast Frontier

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 15.—It will be remembered that shortly after the appointment of General Hsu Shu-chung to the northwestern frontier command, General Chang Tso-lin recommended one of his generals as commandant on the northeastern frontier, whereupon General Tuan Chi-jui secured a mandate appointing him commander-in-chief of the frontier defense force.

General Chang Tso-lin now suggests his own appointment as commander-in-chief on the northeastern frontier with Generals Pao Kwei-ching and Sun Lieh-chen as his assistants, which would restrict General Tuan Chi-jui's command to the northwestern frontier.

Chinese circles are watching the issue, as a trial of strength between the two most powerful leaders in North China.

General Lu Returns For Indefinite Stay

Tuchun Of Chekiang Wants Hu Fung-ling Appointed As Deputy Defense Commissioner

General Lu Yung-hsian, the Chekiang Tuchun who holds concurrently the office of the Shanghai Defense Commissioner, suddenly returned to Shanghai from Hangchow Sunday. His stay in Shanghai will be indefinite and it is possible that General Lu may be stationed in this city for a considerable time.

In view of the importance of Shanghai as a force in military and diplomatic position, General Lu has repeatedly urged Peking to appoint a deputy defense commissioner for Shanghai and transfer his troops of the Tenth Division to Hangchow. He threatened, in one of the messages to Peking, to resign from his Chekiang post unless this is done immediately, as he viewed the position with dismay when Shanghai should not have a military head during the critical moment.

General Lu's nominee for the post is General Hu Fung-ling, Military Commissioner of Ningpo and Taichow and Commander of the Eighth Brigade. Hu is a native of Shantung and was a colleague of General Lu when they served in the training camp at Siaotsang near Tientsin.

ACTING PREMIER NOT TO RESIGN AT PRESENT

Peking Officially Announces That Kung Hsin-chan Will Stay For A While

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, September 10.—It is announced officially that Acting Premier Kung Hsin-chan will not resign for the present. Kung Hsin-chan has made several attempts in the past to withdraw from his present post and re-enter private life, but on each occasion he has been persuaded by the President to remain in office for a little while longer. Acting Premier Kung's latest effort to resign was due, like all the others, to the financial difficulties of the Central Government and his inability to solve them.

It is generally believed here that Kung is sincere in his desire to return to private life and that his resignation will be accepted by the President as soon as it is expedient to do so. This time will not, however, come before the conclusion of the Shanghai Conference, which, it is hoped, will reunite the country and give the people a thoroughly representative government. In the meantime Kung and his Acting Cabinet will have to carry on as best they can.

PREDICTS NEW AIRSHIPS OF GREATER CAPACITY

U. S. Air Service Urges Landing Fields Be Established For Giant Dirigible

Washington, August 10.—Giant all-metal airships capable of cruising 20,000 miles and remaining in the air for three weeks will appear within a few years, according to a statement issued recently by the United States Army Air service. The object of the statement is to urge immediate establishment of municipal landing fields suitable for large airships.

"Airships having a gas capacity of 2,000,000 cubic feet are now [illegible] of greater capacity and constructing shelters suitable for the accommodation of probable sizes five years hence.

"Do not be surprised within the present year to learn of the British nation inaugurating regular airship mail service to Paris, Rome and Canada. The vast expanse of the United States seems exceptionally favorable for the establishment of similar air routes, including service to Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Cuba and Panama.

"Large, expensive buildings to completely house great airships are not required for each landing field. The need is simply a fairly level, clear space about one mile square, having in the center a mooring mast.

"We may reasonably expect in the near future to have transcontinental airships in the United States capable of carrying nearly 200 tons of useful load. Obviously it will be such airships that will transport the first class mail and some passengers. Airplanes will not be displayed by these mammoth ships—the natural employment of the planes in great number will be the local distribution of mail in all directions from the main airship stops across the continent.

"The fire risk which heretofore has menaced all hydrogen filled air-ships will be elimnated in the future by using helium, which is not inflammable."

LONDON PAPER DISCUSSES POSITION OF DOMINIONS

Immense Development Is Seen Within British Empire As Result Of Treaty

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 12.—The Times in a leading article on the discussions in the Canadian and South African Parliaments on the Peace Treaty says:

"The approval of the Dominion Parliament is a foregone conclusion, but far more important is Dominion opinion about the effect of peace upon the position of the Dominions within the Empire. So far on this side the treaty has not received much attention in this country. General Smuts in a very remarkable speech shows what the signature of the treaty by General Botha and himself means, namely that the Dominion peoples for the first time have received international recognition apart from the British Government. It is an immense development and General Smuts is right to make much of it, even apart from his use of it as an argument against General Hertzog. When General Smuts speaks of the representatives of the Dominions acting in future for the Dominions he is thinking no doubt of the League of Nations. It is very interesting to know that the South African delegate to the League will be appointed soon, but the new standing of the Dominions will have many consequences apart from the operation of the League of Nations, and General Smuts does not exaggerate when he says that the whole basis of the British Empire is altered.

"In practice the alteration may not be very great, at least so far as the internal system of the Empire is concerned, but it is not so with the international standing of the Dominions. In this connection the doctrine which has found expression in the Peace Conference is a new doctrine, in advance of Imperial practice, and the task of the future will be to bring the practice of the Empire into correspondence with the theory established at the Conference as a consequence of the part played by the Dominions in the war. General Smuts is aware of this and so is every Dominion leader. For instance, Mr. Rowell in the Canadian Parliament said: 'The necessary machinery to give Canada full nationhood has not yet been worked out.'

"Till that is done the British Government must still represent the Dominions in many international negotiations. The resident Dominion Ministers in London will help to keep the British Government in touch with Dominion opinion but much more than that is needed. It is certainly desirable that the initiative in pressing on the Conference of Empire representatives, at which Mr. Rowell hoped that a solution of the problem would be reached, should come from the Dominion Governments."

New Steam Laundry To Open In January

Machinery Soon To Start From America, It Is Announced At Statutory Meeting

At the statutory meeting of the Shanghai Laundry Company held yesterday afternoon, it was announced that machinery for the new steam laundry is to be shipped from the United States this month and next and the building will be completed in January.

Mr. E. T. Bryne, acting chairman, presided over the meeting and the following were present: Messrs. H. G. Simms, C. M. Bain, John Prentice, C. R. Burkill and F. H. Crossley. There were 1,500 shares represented by proxy.

It was announced that 10,000 shares in the new company have been taken up.

The following resolution was proposed by the chairman and passed: That the statutory report presented to the meeting and circulated among the shareholders be accepted.

Glasgow Congress Frames Demands

class conscious it will not secure the support of many non-manual workers, which is necessary before a labor majority in parliament is possible. Direct action is an extreme assertion of class selfishness and the complete denial of democratic government."

The Westminster Gazette: "If the miners challenge Parliament by a general strike, the question of nationalisation will be swamped in the more serious issue, on which the miners will assuredly be beaten.

The Evening Standard: "If Mr. Smillie, who is a much-defeated parliamentary candidate, attempts to compel nationalisation, he will split the trade-unionists from top to bottom."

The Pall Mall Gazette: "Twenty million parliamentary voters will refuse to be led by the manipulators of a block-vote at the Trade Union Congress."

Aims Charge At Smillie

London, September 11.—At today's meeting of the Trade Union Congress at Glasgow Mr. Tom Shaw, M.P. moving a resolution opposing the principle of industrial action in purely political matters, declared that Mr. Smillie's aim was revolution and the establishment of a Soviet Government. Mr. Shaw believed that the working classes generally were bitterly opposed to strikes for political ends. The place to decide these issues was the House of Commons.

Mr. J. H. Thomas, M.P. declared that not a single trade union had given any delegate a mandate on the question of direct action.

The Congress by 2,250,000 votes to 2,000,000 shelved Mr. Shaw's motion. The result of the voting may possibly be attributed to Mr. Thomas' speech. Mr. Thomas contended that if the motion was carried it might be construed by their opponents as a lever to be used against labor in legitimate industrial questions.

Mr. Frank Hodges, of the Miners' Federation declared that the direct action movement was due to the fact that the electorate was denied an opportunity of turning out the Coalition Government.

Mr. Brownlie, of the Locomotive Engineers' Society opposing the motion, said that if the Government broke its pledges Labor was entitled to use its power to see that faith was kept with the electorate.

Vote Is Explained

London, September 10.—Labor correspondents in the newspapers this morning explain that yesterday's vote on direct action at the Trade Union Congress at Glasgow was not a vote in favor of direct action but, as the movers intended, it was an expression of censure on the parliamentary committee for declining to call a conference on the subject. The correspondents add that there is a general feeling at the Congress that the question will be tested on an explicit resolution, probably tomorrow.

Vote On Nationalisation

London, September 10.—(later).—The Trade Union Congress today on a card vote passed a resolution introduced by Mr. Robert Smillie, President of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, in favor of nationalisation of the mines by 4,478,000 against 77,000 votes. Three hundred and ninety thousand members of the general workers' union did not vote owing to the absence of their teller. The resolution instructed the parliamentary committee in conjunction with the Miners' Federation immediately to interview the Premier and to insist on the Government adopting the recommendation of the majority report of the Coal Commission. The resolution further provided that if the Government refused so to act, a special congress should be convened in order to decide on what action should be taken to compel the Government to accept the Majority report.

Banking Service with AMERICA —direct and personal

EXPORTERS or importers now engaged in, or thinking of, trade with America would do well to consider not only the special nature of our facilities, but also the personal interest we take in every one of our customers' transactions.

First of all, we offer direct banking service—without intermediary dealings, or unnecessary delays.

Equally important is our personal service. Every transaction is followed through, both here and in America, by our own representatives with a personal interest, the value of which is evident in the service rendered.

May we talk with you about America?

President Asks South To Accept Wang Yi-tang

Peace Envoy Has Full Power And Opposition Therefore Not Justified

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, September 10.—The Central Government has suffered considerable anxiety because of the growing opposition in the South to the appointment of Wang Yi-tang as chief northern delegate to the Shanghai Conference, and yesterday both the President and the Cabinet sent urgent requests for the withdrawal of this opposition to the prominent leaders and mediators in Canton and elsewhere throughout the South. The President's message, which was addressed to the Canton Military Government, stated that it was now too late for the North to withdraw Mr. Wang Yi-tang's appointment and send another man to Shanghai in his place. Such action would require time and the situation of the country demanded that peace be made without further useless delay. Failing the resumption of peace negotiations and their successful completion at an early date the Government would not be able to handle satisfactorily the many delicate international problems that are now confronting it, nor would it be possible to reunite the country on a sound and lasting basis if the present state of chaos were permitted to last much longer.

The President further pointed out to the Canton Government that Wang Yi-tang will go to Shanghai vested with full power from the Northern Government to handle all the peace negotiations, particularly the hitherto insoluble parliamentary problem. Hence he does not understand the southern opposition to Wang Yi-tang and trusts that the Southern Government will at once remove all present grounds for misunderstanding and permit the Shanghai Conference to reopen the salvation of the country.

The message sent out yesterday by the Cabinet was addressed to a number of mediators in the South and Southwest and stated that a change in the chief northern delegateship at this time would only tend to complicate the situation and make national unity more remote than it ever was. The mediators are informed that the President is earnest in his desire for an immediate peace and confident of Wang Yi-tang's ability to deal with the situation at Shanghai. Hence the mediators are urged to impress upon the Southern leaders the desirability of accepting Wang Yi-tang forthwith and trusting to his good faith and to that of the Northern Government in the coming Shanghai negotiations.

Recently the Japanese have shown a growing interest in the Conference at Shanghai, and your correspondent understands that a number of prominent Japanese in Peking have expressed to officials of the Government their desire for an early settlement of the domestic peace problem. These men have likewise advised Wang Yi-tang to set out for Shanghai as soon as he can, as his arrival there will be the best indication of his earnestness and good faith. Their advice is that the Government should meet the South at least half way in clearing up present misunderstandings and that it should consistently support its delegate in his negotiations at Shanghai.

Wang Yi-tang himself is not in the least discouraged by the opposition to his appointment and states that he will proceed to Shanghai within a few days no matter what happens. On his way he will stop over first at Tientsin to have a final discussion with Chu Chi-chien and other influential leaders and then at Nanking, where he is anxious to get Li Shun's views on the domestic peace situation.

During the past ten days Wang Yi-tang has been holding a round of receptions to diplomats, officials and newspaper men, both Chinese and foreign, and he has succeeded in making a good impression on almost every one. There is no doubt about his desire for national peace, and he has stated repeatedly and with apparent sincerity that the frequently expressed radical views of the Anfu party are not his views and that he has no intention of adopting the radical Anfu policy in his conduct of the negotiations with the South. He feels that both sides should make concessions in the interests of the country as a whole, and he says that he is going to Shanghai prepared to make these concessions and with the power behind him to see that his arrangements with the South are accepted.

In this last statement may be found the real key to the present situation. The country needs peace, and Wang Yi-tang is going to Shanghai with the desire and the power, as far as the North is concerned, to make peace. Hence it is generally felt here that, regardless of the party which he represents and in spite of many blots on his past record, the South should not only accept Wang as the representative of the North but should send to Shanghai delegates who are prepared to negotiate on a basis of compromise and whose negotiations will be upheld by those who sent them. Peace in China can only be concluded by those who have back of them the power to enforce its terms; once, however, the goal of domestic unity is reached, the progressive elements of the nation will have the opportunity of expressing themselves through the medium of the general parliamentary elections and through the pressure of popular opinion expressed through the medium of a constantly growing liberal press, as well as through public demonstrations along the lines of the present student and citizens movement. This pressure upon the new national government, accompanied by the financial rehabilitation of the country with the aid and advice of the new International Consortium, cannot fail to put China on her feet and ensure the advancement of modern, progressive governmental methods. But to achieve these ends China must first have peace.

WANG YI-TANG HOPEFUL OVER PEACE OUTLOOK

'We Are All On Board Very Leaky Ship And Must Work Together,' He Says

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, September 11.—At the reception given to high officials at the Waichiaopu by Mr. Wang Yi-tang last evening Mr. Wang, referring to external relations said: "Since the termination of the European war the world has suddenly changed its course of progress, and the present tendency towards the right of self-determination and the indications of strife for economic predomination cannot be hindered. But China has persisted in civil strife for several years and it can neither escape the scorn of other nations nor take its rightful place in the struggle for existence. It is frequently said that our people should be morally and intellectually trained in order to establish a proper basis for autonomy, or that we should concentrate our attention on commerce and industry so as to avoid social reaction. These problems relate closely to that of internal peace. If we continue to procrastinate and remain sitting down while others are up and doing we shall continue to see our opportunities slip past, with the obvious effect on China's international situation. The conference at Shanghai can only succeed with the will of the people but in view of the trend of world events we should strive still more vigorously to restore peace in China. That shall be my aim. All my efforts shall be towards reconciliation.

"Those who think that peace cannot be immediately brought about should reflect that North and South belong to the same family. There is no difference either in race or religion. To illustrate my point take the Northern and Southern delegations and you will find men of the North in the Southern delegation and in that of the North some men from the South. Thus the terms North and South have no fundamental meaning. The division of opinion is due to misunderstanding. By the exercise of candor and justice, which my colleagues and I have accepted as a watchword, we hope to restore peace speedily. Personalities are often partisan but love of country is not. We shall accept any honest advice that will help towards peace. We are all on board a very leaky ship, and we must work together."

Shanghai, September 15.—Reuters Agency learns that Mr. Yang Ts'cheng, the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, returned to Shanghai yesterday.

Mr. Wang Yi-tang is expected to arrive in Shanghai in the course of a few days.

Mr. Yang Ts'cheng expresses the conviction that Wang Yi-tang is the right man to represent the North at the forthcoming peace conference, in view of the prestige and authority which he enjoys in the North.

Peking, Sept. 13.—Mr. Wang Yi-tang arrived at Mukden yesterday afternoon and subsequently had an interview with General Chang Tso-lin. He is to leave Mukden this afternoon for Tientsin. It is believed that his stay with General Li Chun has been arranged as a tactical move to await there definite acceptance by the South of his appointment.

Neither House of Parliament appears likely to secure a quorum during the present special session, as many members have left Peking, while a considerable number are attached to Mr. Wang Yi-tang's delegation and are preparing to leave for the South with him.

IMPARTIAL AND PROGRESSIVE

SHANGHAI, SEPT. 16, 1919

This Is Our Peace

SO these are the blessings of peace, this is the promised land to which the whole human race looked with yearning eyes one year ago: a world rocking in turmoil and pitched dangerously on the edge of chaos even worse than war. For consider:

In Boston, Massachusetts, the police have struck, the city is looted by mobs, troops wearing trench helmets patrol the streets and clash with civilians, the navy is called on to protect the port.

In the British Isles the working classes have flung down the challenge of revolt. The congress of labor unions has made a flat demand for the nationalisation of mines, the withdrawal of troops from Russia and the repeal of conscription and threatens to throttle the life of the Isles unless the government complies. Do not underestimate the significance of that: it is silent revolution, it is he sweeping away of old political rms for class dictation, it is the oicing of open discontent with the aseless and hopeless piffling of politician governments. If it succeeds, the British Constitution, the structure of British social life, will have had a century's rebuildg in a fortnight. And in Ireland e Government has virtually deared open war on Sinn Fein—which means the majority of the Irish people—by its attempt to suppress Sinn Fein activities and the long-awaited eruption may be at hand. And do not underestimate that: it will not be a seven days' flare-up after the manner of Easter, 1916. It will be the real thing. And the Castle circles are feverishly working to down the smouldering blaze by drenching it with gasoline—which is quite typical.

In the Adriatic that overheated and altogether ludicrous literary swashbuckler, D'Annunzio, burning with the passion for more war, leads a Coxey's Army expedition into Fiume, thus flying in the face of the League of Nations or the Council of Ten or whatever august body holds the governance of a well ordered world and again bringing France and Italy to the verge of conflict.

In France a general strike has paralysed industry in the Marseilles department and that port is completely tied up. Another industrial tie-up is in progress in Lorraine.

In Hungary Rumanian generals calmly refuse to let the Hungarian government call an election, flouting Hungary, Allies and all.

In Eastern Europe the great conqueror Denikin is in bloody conflict with friend and foe, attacking now Ukrainian allies, now Bolshevist foes, and there is talk of a march on Petrograd—that is to say, evacuating North Russia by getting further in.

In the United States Senate the Foreign Relations Committee submits the peace treaty to the Senate with reservations that include an amendment giving Shantung to China instead of Japan. Now, do not overestimate that: it is more the writing of a political record for use in next year's campaign than a considered expression of a program of statemanship and its chance of passage by the main body is slight. And it is further proof of the utter futility and superfluity and ridiculousness and meaninglessness of the political machinery of government everywhere in the world that partisan considerations should bring two nations to a pass where war is not unlikely. For this is a direct challenge to Japan. If such a challenge is necessary and supported by public opinion, let it be given. But it is gambling with horror to give it for party advantage.

And this!

And in a little cluster of buildings amid the sagebrush of Idaho Woodrow Wilson, poor poor Woodrow Wilson, tilts a shining but now blunted lance in behalf of his peace treaty because the "world will be aflame with war unless the peace treaty is accepted." And the whole world engulfed in domestic and foreign wars as he speaks! Wilson pleading in Idaho for what he thinks is, or hoped to be, a charter of new freedom, while every ideal that should have infused that charter lies trampled under violent struggles for prizes. Some day an historian with the wisdom of all the sages and the vision of all the prophets and the gift of all the muses will fittingly portray the cosmic pathos, of Woodrow Wilson's career, and it will be one of the great historical dramas of all time. One year ago the dominant voice of the great nations, today in a little Idaho town painting the beauties of the house of his vision while the walls lie crumbling in their ruins. Few careers in all history have had more pathetic anti-climax.

That is one day's chronicle one year after the guns stilled. This is the peace. This is our new world. This is what the few blinded old men of Versailles, blind before the signs that stood mountain-high, have fashioned for us. For all this is of their fashioning. All this is direct consequence of their disregard of the principles on which alone genuine peace could have been restored and the discontent of men allayed. It is the ruthless operation of the laws of reason, cause and effect. And if you can think of the disembodied spirits of the British youth who died on the Somme, the French who died at Verdun, the Belgians who died at the Yser, the Americans in the Argonne—if you can think of them returning to survey what has come of their sacrifice, and remembering then how in the days of their suffering they lay and wondered in the mud of the trenches to what end all the madness of their suffering—

To this end? To this end?

Rustic Weather Wisdom

Is it going to rain?

The shepherd among his sheep or the laborer on the farm will not hesitate in his reply to the often-asked question. For these men of the fields are almost uncannily weatherwise. Their barometer is not only the moon, the clouds, the stars, but also beasts, birds, insects, and weeds.

The following signs, among others, warn the countryman of the coming rain or storms:

The shrill cry of the peacock screaming from the farmyard gate.

A herd of cows lying in the meadow, instead of grazing in the pasture.

Lambs leaping and frolicking with extra vigor in the fold.

Ducks balanced on their heads in a pool with only their tails and a portion of their backs appearing above the water-line.

A flight of swallows skimming low.

Smoke ascending in a straight line from the chimney.

The continued sound of croaking frogs from the ditches.

The antagonistic condition of bees round the hive.

The silence of singing birds in the woods.

The pimpernel on the banks with its scarlet blossoms closed against the onslaught of the storm.

The extra brilliance of the stars (on the eve of rain).

The haze around the moon.

Spiders seeking refuge within the cottage or the barn.

The unusually distinct roar of the train heard from afar.

The laborer in his home foretells if rain is near at hand by the lamminess of the stair rail, the limpness of his child's hair. Or, again, he seeks for information from the strand of seaweed hanging on the cottage wall, or from the home-made barometer on the window-sill whose easy construction is a glass jar filled with water supporting the neck of an inverted bottle in its mouth.

By these simple observations and methods the wise weather prophets of the countryside can answer our question, 'Is it going to rain?' with almost unerring ac

Time

"Will you play with me?" said a child to his father.

"There's no time, my dear," said his father. "No, I can't play with you today. There is no time."

The child didn't understand that. So he went to his great-grandfather and asked:

"Isn't there any time?"

"Oh, no, dear. There is no time. It is merely an illusion and does not exist at all. There is no time, in fact."

"Then won't you play with me, either?" asked the child.

"Why, yes, of course I will, my dear! Come along and let us play —for ages and ages!"

Pockets

"A shroud has no pockets," they say.

There was once a man who insisted on having several pockets made in his shroud. And he filled them full of things.

But he arrived in the next world —without his shroud.

Air

"Shut the window, shut the window!" cried the fat city man. "There is far too much air!"

Every day it was the same. And he had little bits of green baize put along at the cracks of the doors in his house. When he went out he put on a thick fur coat and rode in a motor with tightly closed windows, and the inside of it was all puffy with cushions.

But after he died and his body no longer needed air and breath, they opened the windows of his stuffy room.

The Individualist And The Democrat

A box of matches lay in a man's pocket. They were like so many little lifeless bodies waiting for the spark of life. They jostled one another dreadfully, and their heads rubbed together.

"Life is a transitory affair," said one; "but I believe one may accomplish much therein. And I shall kindle a spark that will make a great display, and set the world ablaze in the end."

"No, one can do much alone," said the second; "but if we could only keep together and act together, I believe we could accomplish wonders."

And then a heated discusion began. But as the matches that were taken from the box never came back to it—to bear witness to what they had accomplished in the world—it was difficult to prove anything satisfactorily, or to come to any decision.

And meanwhile the owner of the box walked on, and when he came to a certain backyard between the houses, he made a pile of dry rubbish beside a wooden shed, and took out the first match to set light to it.

"Now I shall start my wonderful career!" cried the match. But the wind blew it out, so the man threw it away into the darkness.

And the second was loth to leave the box, for he was a democrat, and he believed in the masses.

"'Farewell!" he cried. "Though it is my fate to act alone, I still believe that union is strength!"

And the man set light to the pile of rubbish. It blazed up suddenly, and the man threw the box of matches into the gutter, and ran quickly and stealthily away down the dark side of the street.

There were many great houses burnt down that night.

The German Idea Is Prodded

A newspaper duel fought recently in the columns of the Vossische Zeitung by Karl Scheffler, the famous Berlin critic, and Wally Zeppler, a well-known Socialist author, furnishes an interesting illustration of the struggle now raging between the old German, or rather Prussian, school of chauvinistic megalomania, the adherents of the "chosen people" notion, on the one hand, and, on the other, by the little but growing army of disenchanted intellectuals, those urging sober self-examination and prepared to confess and repent.

In his article, headlined "Made in Germany," Karl Scheffler reasserts the sterotyped German theory that Germany is the "country of the pure idea." This "pre-idea" is then stolen by the other great nations like the French and English, and, disguised with a new label, advertised as home-made French or English product.

According to Scheffler the two great ideas "which at present revolutionise the world"—the idea of a league of nations and the idea of international Socialism—are both of German origin. They have merely been appropriated by the French, English, Americans and Russians, distorted by them and "bereft of their original meaning." Western "democracy" and "liberalism" has "vulgarised" the Kantian idea of a perpetual peace secured by an ideal league of nations, vulgarised, that is, "by grinding it through the economically oriented imagination of the mercenary peoples."

This idea, therefore, "is no more worthy of German idealism; it is an idea of the day before yesterday, a so-called truth transformed into a lie in the hands of the unclean; Germans ought to be too proud even to touch it." Similarly, the German idea of socialism has been "rendered materialistic and thereby vulgarised," this time by the Russians. The present task of Germany is "to evolve, out of itself, a new idealism." For, Herr Scheffler says in conclusion, "we may say without unduly emphasising our own importance that the peoples of West and East have lived, so far, to a great extent on the German export of ideas. This, of course, reduces ad absurdum our striving for external world power. For he who labors with the retorts of ideas cannot, at the same time, tend the machine of world politics."

This theory is emphatically denounced by the Socialist authoress as lacking all foundation on fact. "Neither the idea of perpetual peace and the league of nations as its safeguard, nor the idea of socialism are of German origin," she writes. "The first practical suggestion of a peaceable settlement of international quarrels was made by the French jurisconsult Bodin in his book, 'Six livres de la Republique,' published in 1577. He was followed by the famous 'grand plan' of the Duc de Sully, then by Willim Penn's 'Essay Toward the Present and Future Peace of Europe,' and by the 'Project de traite pour rendre la paix perpetuelle entre les souverains chretiens" of the Abbe de Saint-Pierre—all works preceding Kant's treaties on 'Eternal Peace.' Similarly, Marx and Engels themselves testify that Marxian socialism roots in the writings of the great French Socialists Saint-Simon, Fourier, Proudhon and the Englishman, Owen."

But Frau Zeppler objects not only to the distortion of historical facts, but even more to the spirit manifested by Karl Scheffler's intellectual annexationism. "It is the spirit," she writes, "which ought to be battled with the greatest energy by all who are capable of thinking straight: the spirit of self-elevation and untruthfulness which, propagated by a certain group of German litterateurs and professors, has eventually concentrated on Germany the hatred of the entire world. We had to stand by and look on just long enough while the German people was being discredited before all other nations through this kind of literary rubbish, equally arrogant and untruthful, about 'German spirit' and the 'German soul.' The German people, however, is, in its overwhelming majority, not responsible for this product of a tiny literary upper class, for whose conceit now the blame fa[redacted] cause it offers the most living picture of the great H. G. we have seen, we like an article in The New Witness, by Edwin Pugh, an English novelist. His first meeting with Wells, then but thirty and with his first book just out, is the starting point. A smiling man, with puckered eyelids and teeth cheerfully displayed; voice rather high-pitched, yet faintly husky—these were the first observations. After which Mr. Pugh records these more detailed features, ending in a central clew well worth the stressing:

"There were, however, minor details to observe—a suggestion of thin, rickety youthfulness about his figure, though he was then past thirty; a fair, ragged mustache, a tiny sprout of darker whisker hardly extending to the lobe of his ear, and, I should say, virginal; a small, fleshy chin, plumpish cheeks, and a hint of delicate bloominess in the texture of his skin that seemed to bespeak either convalescence or chronic ill-health. With his hat on he might have passed for a small tradesman or a miraculously well dressed peasant. There was certainly nothing distinguished or distinguishing in that outdoor aspect of the famous H. G. Wells. Only his voice was peculiar to himself, and rendered all the more peculiar to my sensitive cockney ear by the ghost of a cockney accent."

Where did the great H. G. get this faint overtone of cockneyism? It is as much a mystery to Mr. Pugh as to any one. The son of Joseph Wells, gardener and professional cricketer, Mr. Pugh understood his new friend to be, and educated as a child at a private school in Kent. Where did the cockney trace come in?

It is not for Americans to attempt to judge such subtle British qualities. But we think it will be the testimony of many Americans that their love for Mr. Wells is very largely dependent upon just the quality which we roughly class as cockney. Mr. Polly, for instance. In all of Mr. Wells's best writing of pure fiction—where the sermon does not run away with the fun—there is a quality of human, confidential fatness, a sort of quick, knowing eagerness toward everything human and living (providing it is simple and really alive), that is surely pavement bred, and equally surely creates the highest art from Mr. Wells's versatile pen.

Boston is a state of mind, we say in America. And may not cockneyism be equally a question of soul? Might not H. G. have been born a cockney in Kent or anywhere else? We leave the question for experts to answer, only remarking that if H. G. is indeed a true cockney the upturned noses will have to come down. Aspirates or no aspirates, a mind that can tackle the universe as can H. G.'s and look at life and death and all the gods with a keen, level eye, eternally alert and eternally unabashed, is worth whatever sacrifice of conventional distinction is needed to achieve it.—New York Tribune.

Publicity For China

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir.—One of the objects of the European and American Returned Students' Association is undoubtedly to act as a medium through which the real conditions of our country may be communicated to Europe and America. Internationally, the Shantung question is the most urgent case in the Orient. Although the American people are interested now about the Shantung question, yet we fear the great majority does not know much regarding Shantung.

What this Association should do right now is to give the Shantung question more publicity before the American public, and we cannot do it in any way more effective than to prepare a pamphlet containing a brief sketch of Shantung historically, geographically and diplomatically. A map of Shantung, showing the railways, mines and other industries that have been turned into Japanese hands should be included. The "railway zone," in which the Chinese have no power of policing, should be drawn in. A larger map showing the routes of the Tsinan-Shunteh line, etc., should be incorporated also. The effect of such lines to be built and operated by Japanese should be explained.

In a word, the undersigned hopes that a pamphlet written and prepared after American fashion be done in the quickest manner possible. Copies should be sent free to all political leaders, Congressmen, leading business men, educators, and all libraries in the United States. Whoever reads through this pamphlet will be impressed by the great wrong the Peace Conference tolerated to be meted to us Chinese. A glance over the maps will convince any man of the far-reaching effect this Shantung question will bear upon the future of the Orient as well as the whole world. The length of the railways proposed should be compared with some equivalent lines in America; the area, population, production of Shantung should be compared with some equivalent States in the U.S.A. In short this should be prepared concisely and graphically after American journalistic fashion. We have such talents in Shanghai; we have enough number of returned students to stand the expenses, which should be contributed among ourselves. Please get together and have "team work."

Queer London Restaurants

By Ward Muir
(Daily Mail)

Some years ago a friend took me to the Japanese restaurant in Cornaby Street. We drank ineffably delicate tea. Then our meal was brought. Its first course consisted of lobster fried in batter, accompanied by some tiny bowls containing salads of such artistic hue and arranged so like exotic posies of blossoms that it seemed a shame to thrust a fork into them.

As a fact my friend used chopsticks. I have never mastered these implements. Whenever I revisit the Japanese restaurant, or go to the Chinese ones which are beginning to be so familiar a feature of London, it astonishes me that any human being is sufficiently adroit to fish up a grain of rice between two pencils held in the fingers of one hand.

I remember that, emerging from the Japanese restaurant, we noticed round the corner a Servian restaurant. And I thereupon made a vow to visit all the queer foreign restaurants of the metropolis.

But I have never fulfilled that vow: because the choice of foreign restaurants is too large. It is, in effect, endless. London, viewed in the light of its restaurants, reveals itself as by far the most cosmopolitan city in Europe—possibly in the world.

Of course we all know the Italian, French, Belgian, and Swiss restaurants in Soho and in the Tottenham Court-road quarter—and perhaps some explorers may have shuddered on noticing in Charlotte Street a Dutch shop which announces that it sells "Horse Meat for Human Consumption." But how many Londoners have tried the Greek restaurants? I know of two, one in Windmill Street and one in Beak Street. There are also two Indian restaurants—in Rupert Street and Lisle Street—where you can scorch your palate excruciatingly but exquisitely on chutnies, curries, kababs, kormas, and pulaos. (But unless you are a retired Anglo-Indian you will have to ask the waitress's advice when you are presented with the bill of fare.)

At a Spanish restaurant in Dean Street I have had excellent repasts. The menu offers Entremeses (hors d'œuvres), Sopas, Pastas, Huevos, Pescado (fish), Platos del dia (dishes of the day), Legumbers, and Quesos (cheeses). These viands sound more romantic in Spanish than in French, but, to be candid, taste much the same.

Somewhere in the City there is an Albanian restaurant which I confess I have not yet visited: and farther east, at Limehouse Causeway, there is a cluster of Chinese eating-houses. They are worth a visit, though the ones in the West End are, as far as I can judge, just as "genuine"—if you yearn to know, say, what squid tastes like with a garnishing of pineapple.

Near Regent Street there is a Salonica restaurant, and in Great Windmill Street there is a Russian bar. Just behind the Lyric Theater there is an Oriental cafe which is the chief London rendezvous of Armenians. You can get a cup of real Egyptian-style coffee here, and—for the sum of one shilling—hire and smoke a narghile.

And when you have sampled all these places you will only have begun to touch the fringe of a curious and interesting subject. But it is possible that you will have arrived at a quite ferocious longing for an English grilled chop and a pint of English beer.

'Fluide' Frocks

"Fluide," said the Paris merchant, "will be worn next autumn for the evening gown."

I gasped—"fluide" frocks seemed to suggest more indiscretion than we have been showing even with the very short skirt and the too decollete gowns of the past few months.

"Fluide is one of the new silks we are ordering from Lyons," he explained. "It is a new color."

It is wonderful nowadays how fashionable colors are named. We have had tints and shades given us to wear described as midnight blue, daylight green, raspberry red, coral rose, and wine pink, but the latest innovation is undoubtedly—"fluide."

As it suggests, it is fluid color, and as water can be practically colorless or otherwise, we are threatened with an amazing array of "fluide" shades. The possibilities are immense. A Thames dock "fluide," for instance, is very different in shade from the blue "fluide" of the Mediterranean; there are "fluides" in glasses and other little sparkling "fluides" in rippling brooks running through meadows, all different and individual.

So far, however—and this is very important early news—Paris has decided on three shades of "fluide" silk which are of the blue to grey gradations.

There are a few other colors on the way to London town from the center of fashion—"pruneaux" and "raisins," which explain themselves.

But strange are the little caprices of the dame who is assumed to reign over the fashion world.

Although the fox-trot dance is fox-trotting from the scene, a new color in Lyons silk for the autumn is called "Fox-trot." It is in three shades and caused some argument as to whether it could be called jade-green or olive green or peacock blue, but it is clearly defined by the manufacturers as "Fox-trot."

So we shall no doubt say: "I will wear my little Fox-trot gown for the dansant this afternoon." But it will be a "fox-trot" gown in which we shall dance the mysterious new dances, particulars of which are at the moment in sealed envelopes. Perhaps in the end we shall dance the revived waltz in a "fluide" frock.

Fuel From The Sun

By Harold Lake

All our civilisation depends on energy, and the great source of energy is the sun, which pours it down daily upon the earth. Thousands of years ago some of that energy was stored away in the form of vegetable substances which were presently turned into coal. It is being stored away today in the form of trees and other plants which we can put on our fires. And over great spaces of the earth's surface it is running splendidly to waste, as the fierce rays blaze and beat upon the unprofitable deserts, or as they cause water to rise in the form of vapor to the clouds, whence it descends again to the sea in millions of unharnessed streams.

We are threatened with a disastrous rise in the price of coal. That in itself should remind us that the world's supply of coal is not infinite, and must some day come to an end. Indeed, although the end may be far off, we are feeling the beginning of it now, since a part at least of the present increase is due to the using up of easily accessible coal, and the need to get that which is more difficult for the miner to handle.

Faced with the gradual disappearance of coal, people sometimes exclaim. "Ah, but oil remains, and this is the Oil Age. Have we not invented the internal combustion engine?" But their jubilation takes no account of the fact that it is estimated that, at the present rate of use, the American oil supply will not last more than 25 years longer.

But when they are told that the oil, like the coal, must presently be finished, they turn to a new idea. "Electricity is the thing," they declare. "Harness the tides! There is an inexhaustible source of light, heat, and power."

As to that, one can only say that it has not yet been shown how we can do this profitably. Within the last two years a competent electrical engineer has declared that "the only problem involved in harnessing the tides is how to make even a half of one percent on the capital required for the undertaking."

Years ago there was a scheme for an apparatus of gigantic mirrors to be set up in the Sahara, there to collect, in some complex fashion, the energy direct from the sun. Another method of going direct to the sun is that of Professor F. W. Burstall, of Birmingham, who points out that alcohol is an ideal fuel, and can easily be produced from starch, which in turn can be made from plants which are sufficiently luxuriant in growth, such as the cactus.

One thing is certain—we must find some new way of getting the energy we require. Coal is too valuable to be used wastefully; oil is very limited, and we have yet to learn how to produce electricity cheaply. What will our next method be?

FAREWELL TO DR. REINSCH IS GIVEN AT PEKING

Departing American Minister Believes China's Future Outlook Is Full Of Promise

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, September 14.—Dr. Reinsch had a brilliant sendoff last night from members of the diplomatic corps and western returned students, a representative gathering of Americans, British and Chinese, including the Acting Premier Kung Hsin-chan. The grandmaster of the ceremonies and Tsai Ting-kan represented the President and Hsu Shu-chen represented Tuan Chi-jui. The guard of honor consisted of two contingents of Chinese troops, an Indian detachment commanded by Major Hammond, commandant of the British legation guard, and two companies of American marines. Chow Tze-chi, ex-minister of finance, one of the most prominent returned American students, accompanied Dr. Reinsch to Tientsin. The American marine band played Auld Lang Syne as Dr. Reinsch's train left the station.

In response to a special request Dr. Reinsch gave Reuter's correspondent the following farewell message: "On leaving Peking, I cannot refrain from expressing a deep sense of gratification at the many evidences of friendship I have received from Chinese and foreign friends during the last few weeks. I leave China feeling the greatest sympathy and friendship for her people, admiration for their fine qualities of character, and confidence in their future, believing that the Chinese leaders and people have gained greatly during the past years in experience through all the difficulties which had to be overcome. An active public opinion has been created which makes for a more general understanding of the meaning of political action and a great interest in government as being the management of common affairs in trust for the people. The economic condition of China is most promising. Her agricultural resources are unexhausted and the utilisation of her natural wealth is only just beginning, so China may look forward to a decade of peaceful and prosperous development, which will give great satisfaction to all her friends. Among them the American people are taking an increasing and most warm interest in the welfare of China."
